Direct Contact... Call or Email! Link Building

Of course, there are thousands more news sources and websites that can help you promote your business. You can usually find a phone number and/or the email you should send the request to on the website's contact page. Getting quality links to your website greatly improves SEO efforts. Sending an email with a request to link to your website, or offering content relevant to their readers (such as a "guest post") with a link to a specific page on your website is called link building. "Quality links" are websites with a high domain authority, and/or websites that are relevant to your business, product, niche. Your email should include how including your link will benefit them.
